

LOOPWHEELS

On stand M9 at Naidex 2016, Loopwheels will be debuting its range of ergonomic 'Curve' push rims, which incorporate a specially designed profile to ensure optimum contact between the push rim and the wheelchair users hand.

The shape of the Curve push rim is designed to support limited arm and finger function. Combined with the greater contact surface, this results in increased grip, hand and wrist stability, and greater control over the wheelchair while propelling, changing directions and braking. Based on the natural anatomy of the hand, the Curve's ergonomically optimised profile guarantees a controlled and effortless grip, while stabilising the wrist.

Loopwheels are shock-absorbing wheelchair wheels that offer a smoother ride and help the user push over uneven streets, rough tracks and gravel paths, with less effort. Loopwheels' springs provide the user with increased power when manoeuvring their
